A comparison of search results from InfoTame and a Search Engine

What is the difference between InfoTame and a search engine?

Think of the following analogy: Suppose that the entire Internet is a foreign city and you are a newly arrived tourist.

You may need to find a specific place, or simply want to familiarize yourself with the city.

A search engine, for example Google, suggests places that are likely to be relevant – and then lets you wander around the city until you find what you want.

InfoTame, on the other hand, gives you a MAP to the city. This not only enables you to find what you know you want, but also alerts you to places you may not even have considered.

Let's explore this further with actual examples!

1. “Richard Branson”

Suppose that I am a journalist, and that I am writing an article about Sir Richard Branson. I need to find out about his businesses, significant people and events connected to him, and other items of interest which I may not know about.

So I search for the phrase “Richard Branson” using Google:

The result gives us some ideas about Richard Branson but it is not all that helpful because now I have a list of 2,480,000 websites, which I must examine and dig further into. As a researcher, I am very worried that:

- a. I may not be looking at the most relevant information at the top of the list;
- b. I may overlook significant information and patterns that I may not even be aware of.

Or to put it another way, you can approach any search problem systematically by:

- A. Identifying what you know;
- B. Identifying what you don't know;
- C. Recognizing that beyond are things that you don't know that you don't know.

These are “unknown unknowns”, which brings us to the fundamental problem with traditional search engines:

“How can I search for something if I don’t know how to articulate my query? What do I enter in the search box??”

As information around the world grows exponentially, this is now a very real and serious problem.

OK, so now let me show you how the InfoTame solution gets around this problem and returns much richer and denser information.

Let’s return to our “Richard Branson” example.

InfoTame has created a demonstration of its technology by wrapping its browser-based software around a database of 3.5 million news articles.

If I put “Branson” into the InfoTame engine, I get the following list of word pairs in an easy-to-use point-and-click interface, which we call the Information Portrait™ :

Within a few seconds, I get a list of concepts and entities connected to “Branson”, which are automatically arranged like a “table of contents” to the 1458 documents found.

Key companies associated with Richard Branson are found: “Virgin Airlines”, “SN Brussels”, “Singapore Airlines”, “Virgin USA”.

Key concepts associated with Richard Branson are also found: “Entrepreneur”, “Tycoon”, “Billionaire”, “Chairman”.

Less obvious links are also found: “Burt Rutan”, “Mohave California”, “Britain Lottery”.

If I want to explore the relationship to “Burt Rutan” to spruce up my story, all I need to do is to click on BURT RUTAN and I get another Information Portrait:

The screenshot shows the InfoTame web interface. At the top, there is a navigation menu with buttons for 'NEW QUERY', 'DOC LIST', 'DOC REVIEW', 'ANALYTICS', 'MANAGE', 'OPTIONS', and 'HELP'. Below the menu, there are several utility buttons: 'Main query', 'Hide Correlations', 'Hide Significance', 'Add docs to collection', 'Save', and 'Print'. The main heading is 'Information Portrait'. Below this, there is a 'Query:' field containing 'Branson// cbx(BURT RUTAN)' and a 'Query mode:' dropdown set to 'Advanced'. There are 'Find' and 'Clear' buttons. Below the query field, it says 'Documents found: 101' and 'Query ID: **Tempo**'. There is a 'View:' dropdown set to 'Descriptor Pairs'. Below this, there are 'Related' and 'Unrelated' buttons with a 'Turn off' button. The main content is a table with two columns of results. Each row has a radio button, an 'Incl' checkbox, an 'Excl' checkbox, a 'Key Descriptors' column, and a 'Significance' column with a red bar. The first column of results includes: SIR RICHARD, MOJAVE CALIFORNIA, PAUL ALLEN, BRIAN BINNIE, DICK RUTAN, ENTREPRENEUR RICHARD, BRANSON VIRGIN, and MR FOSSETT. The second column of results includes: MOJAVE AIRPORT, AP MILLIONAIRE, JOHN MILBURN, DATELINE MOJAVE, MILLIONAIRE ADVENTURER, MANAGER PAUL, AVIATION ADMINISTRATION, and CALIFORNIA AP. At the bottom, there are 'Related' and 'Unrelated' buttons with a 'Turn off' button and an 'Execute' button.

^Millionaire pilot Fossett soars across North Africa on round-the-world bid<
^By JOHN MILBURN=
^Associated Press Writer=
SALINA, Kansas (AP) _ A quarter of the way to history, millionaire adventurer Steve Fossett raced across North Africa and the Middle East in his bid to become the first person to fly a plane around the globe solo, nonstop and without refueling.
Fossett was over Pakistan at 49,500 feet (14,850 meters) around 11 p.m.
EST Tuesday (0400 GMT Wednesday), traveling east at 390 mph (627 kph).
His experimental single-engine GlobalFlyer had consumed 25 percent of its 18,000 pounds (8,100 kilograms) of fuel, while Fossett had downed at least three diet chocolate milkshakes. The jet took off after sunset Monday from Salina.
"At this time everything is going very well, I'm very happy with the situation and I think we've got a good chance," Fossett said during a call from the plane, according to his Web site.
Fossett's mission control in Salina estimated he will complete the 23,000-mile (37,000-kilometer) journey at midday Thursday.
Fossett, 60, already holds the record for flying solo around the globe in a balloon, as well as dozens of other aviation and sailing records.
Project manager Paul Moore said Fossett reached his cruising altitude of 45,000 feet (13,500 meters) over the Atlantic instead of over Saudi Arabia, as originally expected, because of better-than-expected performance of the GlobalFlyer.
The project is being financed by Virgin Atlantic founder Sir Richard Branson, a longtime friend and fellow adventurer.
For a while early Tuesday, Fossett was flying blind and in the dark over the U.S.-Canada border after experiencing difficulties with his global positioning system. Moore said Fossett relied on help from mission control to navigate before the problem corrected itself.

So, as you can see, InfoTame gives us much more than a search engine.

Before InfoTame provides the user with documents, it gives a high-density display of various people, places and entities related to the initial query. And an easy path to get to the documents behind each topic, including those that the user didn't know were important or even existed in the database.

InfoTame allows you to answer questions that you may not even know how to ask!

Conventional wisdom says that you cannot search for something if you don't know it exists. Now, with InfoTame, you can.

This is achieved by using advanced mathematical techniques derived from algorithms originally used in particle physics.

2. “Football”

The key concept which underlies InfoTame's technology is the idea of “statistical significance”.

When you input a search term into InfoTame, the software analyzes the statistical significance of all words in the documents containing the term. Then it compares their significance across the entire database. From this, the Information Portrait is generated.

To illustrate the difference between “significance” and “popularity”, let us do another comparison between InfoTame and Google.

Suppose we put the word “football” into Google:

Notice that a website about American football is listed at the top of the list, a result of the web users' popularity vote.

But we know that there are far more soccer (European "football") fans in the world than there are followers of American football.

If we put the word "football" into InfoTame, we discover that American football is much less statistically significant. It is European football which now dominates the top!

Notice how InfoTame's technology also picks up significant names and entities – "David Beckham", "AC Milan", "Alex Ferguson" and "Wayne Rooney", as well as connections to other sports:

Because InfoTame is based on statistical analysis, the results seem more objective and are detached from “popularity vote”.

The database contains whatever it contains, and InfoTame will extract meaning without regard to any human, national or other bias.

3. “Indian”

To further illustrate advantages of InfoTame’s approach over search engines, let’s put the word “Indian” into Google:

The screenshot shows a Google search for the word "Indian". The search bar contains "Indian" and the search button is visible. Below the search bar, there are navigation links for "Web", "Images", "Groups", "News", "Froogle", "Local", "Desktop", and "more »". The search results are displayed under the heading "Web" and show "Results 1 - 10 of about 529,000,000 for Indian [definition]. (0.08 seconds)".

The search results are as follows:

Once again, the top-ranked websites relate to American Indians and not linked in any way to India, the country after which the Native Americans were mislabelled.

This is NOT to say that there is something wrong with Google.

It is merely to note that “popularity vote” algorithm is of limited value in many cases when the “voters” have interests very different from what you may be looking for.

This is a problem which InfoTame avoids.

Watch what happens when we put “Indian” into InfoTame.

Most of the significant words or phrases relate to the country of India while, at the same time, we can find several topics related to American Indians:

4. “Dyke”

Before January 2004, the word “dyke” was only significant in global news in its meaning as a “ditch”, “embankment”, or a slang term for lesbians.

Starting in January 2004, the word “dyke” picked up other significance. “Greg Dyke” of BBC became very significant!

Using InfoTame, we can track the significance of the word “dyke” over time:

We see that the number of documents with the word “dyke” spikes in Q3 of 2002 and in Q1 of 2004. We can click into these time periods to see what is happening.

Below is the Information Portrait for Q3 in 2002 – clearly there were major floods in China at that time:

The screenshot shows the InfoTame web interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with buttons for 'NEW QUERY', 'DOC LIST', 'DOC REVIEW', 'ANALYTICS', 'MANAGE', 'OPTIONS', and 'HELP'. Below this is a secondary bar with 'Main query', 'Hide Correlations', 'Hide Significance', 'Add docs to collection', 'Save', and 'Print'. The main heading is 'Information Portrait'. The query input field contains 'dyke // ${MainDate}: 7/1/2002..9/30/2002'. The 'Query mode' is set to 'Advanced'. Below the query field, it shows 'Documents found: 403' and 'Query ID: 7/1/2002 - 9/30/2002'. The 'View' is set to 'Descriptor Pairs'. There are 'Turn off' and 'Execute' buttons. The main content is a table of key descriptors with significance bars.

In Q1 of 2004, Greg Dyke resigned from the BBC after Lord Hutton’s inquiry into the suicide of a prominent scientist, David Kelly, and poor reporting practices by the BBC reporter Andrew Gilligan.

We can see how the Information Portrait for that time period is dominated by the cast of characters and other topics involved in the scandal:

Conclusion

Search engines effectively find relevant documents but with the ever growing flood of information, new technologies such as InfoTame are needed to make sense out of the mass of results being returned by traditional search engines.

InfoTame's powerful analytics engine "reads" all the found documents and extracts the most significant relationships for your subject of interest. The result is like a "map" to all the found documents.

With InfoTame, you can quickly navigate through the massive amounts of text data, zooming in and drilling down into the unearthed connections and associations. You may also discover many "unknown unknowns", which no one can look for with a search engine because no one knows beforehand that they exist.

InfoTame's approach is particularly useful for extracting information from mountains of text data saved by today's enterprises where "popularity vote" algorithms are simply not applicable.

In short, InfoTame allows you to go far beyond mere search.
